The Forest-Water Working Group has met twice now and we are continuing to define specific objectives and action steps in two areas: Knowledge Building and Modeling.

Here is our draft statement of interest/inquiry: Understanding how water availability and timing are changing and being changed by conditions and forest treatments. There is an interest in further understanding how changes in forest structure are impacting the timing and availability of surface water, this includes understanding ET, soil moisture, snowpack, and energy balance shifts. In addition, there is interest in understanding how changes in forest structure impact forest resiliency as it pertains to soil moisture, forest health, soil health, and how forest system functions impact fuels and wildfire.
